

DRUMMER FOR THE MOB

Project: DRUMMER FOR THE MOB

Funding Mechanism: Drummer for the Mob Film LLC

Producer: Bruce Koehler

Executive Producer: Bryan Koehler

Writers: Raphael Serebreny and Frank Catanzano

Composers: Wayne Hurry and Rob Hurry

Production Company: North Shore Pictures

Production Start Date: April 1, 2011. End: September 15, 2011

Synopsis: Frankie Severino is the drummer and leader of The Nite Lites, a rock band that plays the clubs in Pittsburgh, owned and operated by organized crime. The primary club, The Horizon, is run by ruthless capo Big Julie Passano. Passano likes and trusts Frankie and begins ordering him to make deliveries of cash for the organization and other odd jobs, like informant. The FBI puts the squeeze on Frankie to deliver information that could bring Passano to justice. Frankie falls in love with Toni, a young girl he met at the club, who wants Frankie out of the clutches of the syndicate. The pressure applied by the FBI and Passano's organization is a vortex threatening to destroy him. It comes to a violent conclusion, as Frankie double crosses one to save himself from the other. Drummer for the Mob has it all, from mob hits to massage parlor wars, against the back drop of sex, drugs and rock 'n roll. Based upon a true story, the film features Kurt Angle (The Warrior and Death from Above), Robert Z-Dar (Maniac Cop), Sam Nicotero (My Bloody Valentine and In Self Defense), Pete Gannon (The Clearing and Lost in Yonkers) and Tom Savini (From Dusk to Dawn, Creepshow and Dawn of the Dead).

Marketability: "Drummer for the Mob" will be targeted to the 35 to 65 year old male and female demographics who experienced the disco years during the 1970s into the 80s, as well as the millions who are fascinated by the Mafia and are fervent fans of The Sopranos and The Godfather. Similar films include "We Own the Night" (Joaquin Phoenix and Eva Mendes), Saturday Night Fever (John Travolta), Goodfellas (Robert De Niro and Joe Pesci) and Jersey Boys (Broadway).

Secured Cast: Kurt Angle, Robert 'Z' Dar, Tom Savini, Pete Gannon, Sam Nicotero

Kurt Angle

Robert 'Z' Dar

Tom Savini

Pete Gannon

Sam Nicotero